

Management of ERP resources and implementation in the armed forces

Aim of this book is to highlight the importance of the use of an ERP system by the army and answer the key question of whether the common knowledge from businesses at the logistics sector and especially the ERP can be shared and adapted by military organizations, after having taken into account that there are no water tight between military and business environment, and common practices from military organizations are widely used in business world and vice versa. Hopefully the conclusions that will emerge will contribute to the improvement of the existing methods and practices used by the Armed Forces.
